Judge Charles G. Smith said tuat if Mr. Snodgrass wished to speak, as Mr. Wilson suggested, let him choose his men.

Mr. Henderson said that before speaking, if it was desired, he would rield to Mr. Wilson.

Mr. M. Henderson of Knox was the next speaker.

Mr. Wright then continued: When the Democratic party was in throes of dissolution, might he not ask that they conter together for the good of the party? He would ask Mr. Snodgrass if he would not yield a little in the effort at reconciliation.

To this Mr. Snodgrass answered that the persons he represented demanded the unconditional and unequivocal submission of the debt question to the people after the legislature has acted. If this demand was acceded to, his friends would give them a candidate that would be elected by fifty thousand majority. (Cries of "Suppose we don't give you swerthing you demand?")
